

You are allowed to team up with other people from your team for this exercise

For this exercise, try to remember if any of your teammates have brought up a problem or issue while working on the project.

If you can remember this problem, try to use the The Toyota Method or 5 Whys to find the root cause of this problem.

If you can't remember a problem from your own project, you are welcome to imagine a problem, and then use that to find what could be the root cause.